Forecast for Monday 27 Sep 2021

Weather: A wet night for most ranges but rain beginning to clear the western ranges shortly after dawn. Remaining wet for much of morning for ranges in the east around Glenshee and Loch Muick. Clearer weather will spread east for the afternoon with some brightness however showers are also likely to develop especially in the west around Loch Tay area, perhaps remaining dry for hills further east. With strong westerly winds any showers will move through quite quickly. Some showers may be wintery on Lochnagar, Ben Lawers and other higher tops.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 10% in the early morning with a lot of low cloud associated with rainfall. Improving to 70% in the afternoon, some patches or periods of scattered low cloud still likely especially in the west around showers.

Visibility: Poor visibility in the morning in heavy rain and with extensive low cloud from 400m. Cloud breaking up as rain clears and by the afternoon there will be bright spells and periods of low cloud near showers from 600m and above, in any heavier showers visibility will dip to a few kilometres for a time. For eastern hills in the afternoon visibility will be very good.
